PURPOSE

Residential

The approval as the planning authority issued it, reproduced in full behind this page.

An approval speaks to what was sanctioned, not to what was built. Completion is a separate record.

This architectural drawing shows a side elevation of a building. The facade is composed of several rectangular sections. On the left, there is a vertical stack of three windows, each with a dark frame and a horizontal mullion. To the right of this stack is a larger, empty rectangular area. Further right, there is another vertical stack of three windows, similar to the first stack. The building has a flat roof with a few small, dark rectangular features. The drawing is a simple line sketch with some color shading on the windows.

Prepared from the registers named on the page each finding sits on. Where a register could not be read, this document says so in its place rather than leaving the gap to be read as a clean result.
